

ABSTRACT

A handheld biopsy device is provided for the collection of soft tissue samples from a surgical patient. At least one electrode is provided, such as between a handle and the knife tip of the biopsy device. The electrodes can be provided on a sleeve. The sleeve with electrodes can be releasably supported on the biopsy device.